Specialist mental health support

YFlex specialises in providing mental health support to young people (12-25 years) who face barriers to accessing mental health services.

YFlex support is tailored, responsive and specialised to the needs of young people and meets them where they are at on their recovery journey.

YFlex provides support to young people who are:

- Experiencing complex mental health issues
- At risk of developing complex mental health issues
- Experiencing emerging mental health issues and have difficulty accessing other mainstream mental health supports

Flexible support

YFlex emphasises relationships and intensive psychosocial support with integrated clinical care.

Outreach support can occur in young peoples' homes or communities to allow more time for developing relationships with young people and their supports.

The aims of YFlex

YFlex offers young people improved and timely access to specialist mental health supports, with the aim of:

- Developing a stronger sense of identity, optimism and hope
- Decreasing psychological distress and increasing coping skills
- Increasing social, educational and vocational functioning
- Increasing a sense of connection/belonging with local community
- Developing relapse prevention plans
- Decreasing problematic alcohol and drug use

Working together

Understanding the importance of family and friendship networks to a young person's recovery, YFlex works collaboratively with family, friends and carers.
